PREFACE.

It is to be regretted that it was deemed expedient to print a Catalogue of the Astor Library, before it was known that it would soon be enabled to make large additions to its number of volumes. The noble purpose of the son of its founder had not then been communicated; by his liberality, this collection of books now only begun, will ere long become so considerable, as to entitle it in point of numbers to rank with first class libraries, and in point of absolute completeness to make it in reality a library. It would then have been the time, if such a thing is to be done at all, for printing a catalogue, and it is not unreasonable to predict, that during this now living age, the principal value of the present one will be to mark the proportions between the newborn child and the full grown man. Of the library as it is, the first volume of the catalogue is here presented, and as its plan differs in some respects from that of most other catalogues, some explanation of it may be desirable. The plan is that of a Dictionary or alphabetical Index in two parts—the first, of authors and books—the second, of subjects. In the first part the books in the library are entered in strict alphabetical order under the name of the author as found upon the title page, or annexed to the dedication or preface, and if anonymous they are entered by their titles. In the latter case, the word of the title which constitutes its main subject is that under which it is entered, and not as is usual, under that of the first word of the title which is not an article or preposition. The reason for this deviation is, that few persons can be presumed to remember precisely, what the first word of a title is, whereas the leading subject of it cannot fail to be known. When a book is published under an assumed name and is continued under the same, the assumed name is that under which it is entered upon the catalogue, with a cross reference, if need be, to the author's real name. Biographies are placed under the name of the author and not under that of the subject of the biography; in the second part of the catalogue, that of the subject will govern. Geographical and historical works are in all cases entered under the authors' names, except state papers, public documents and the like, which will be found under the name of the Empire, Kingdom, Country, County, or City to which they relate. Transactions of academies and other learned societies are placed under the name of the city in which the meetings of the society are usually held—literary, scientific, and other Journals and Periodicals under their leading title. In a word, the most specific title is adopted in preference to a more general one in determining where in the catalogue it is to be entered. Collective titles, as Analecta, Bibliothecas, Tracts, Works, &c., are specified under the collective head, and again entered in the alphabetical place to which the individual work belongs as far as practicable. The design of the catalogue throughout, is to facilitate the use of the library both to reader and attendant, and for that reason all bibliographical quiddling has been carefully eschewed. The entry of an author's publications under the general title of works is next to no entry at all, especially for those not exceedingly familiar with books, and it is for persons of this class that the catalogue is mainly intended. Readers that know what books they want never need a Catalogue of any kind except to know if the books wanted are in the library to which they repair.

These are some of the distinctive features of the first part of the Astor Library Catalogue, or Alphabetical Index of Authors and Books. In the second, or Index of subjects, the same alphabetical order will be observed. Every man's experience teaches him, that the Dictionary form is the best of all forms for a guide to needed knowledge, and that with such an aid the right track is surely and easily found. A philosophical system of classification for a library supposes that one mind can follow in the track of another, and can take time to reflect and discover what that track is; hence the difficulty of finding a book sought for in what is called a catalogue raisonné. There are very many books of which the appropriate place has never been fixed in any system of classification. Where, for example, shall works on suicide be placed, or what must be the classifier's creed to authorize him to decide what books must come into the class of orthodox and canonical, and what into that of heretical and schismatic? In view of these and other difficulties, the only unobjectionable plan for the second part of the Astor Library printed Catalogue seemed to be that of a simple dictionary of subjects, and it certainly is the one which renders the library most easy of consultation. Readers who wish for something more can have recourse to the classed catalogues in manuscript, or the fuller and more minute Bibliographies in that department of the Library.

The Alphabetical Catalogue will probably require eight volumes of the size of the present, four for each part; the remaining three of the first part will be brought out as speedily as can be done, consistent with the labour requisite to secure to them tolerable correctness, and the revisional part of this labour cannot be divided; it can be performed only by the mind and eye of one person.

Vol. I. De seriebus in quibus producta ex binis terminis contiguis datam constituunt progressionem.
Varia artificia in serierum indolem inquirendi.
Observationes circa divisionem quadratorum per numeros primos.—Observationes analyticæ.
Disquisitio accuratior circa residua ex divisione quadratorum altiorumque potestatum per numeros primos relicta.—De eximio usu methodi interpolationum in serierum doctrina.
De criteriis equationis $fxx+gyy=hzz$, utrum ea resolutionem admittat nec ne?
De quibusdam eximiis proprietatibus circa divisores potestatum occurrentibus.—Additamentum.
Proposita quacunque progressione ab unitate incipiente quæritur, quot ejus terminos ad minimum addi oporteat ut omnes numeri producantur.
Nova subsidia pro resolutione formulæ $axx+1=yy$.
Miscellanea analytica.—Variæ observationes circa angulos in progressione geometrica procedentes.
Quomodo sinus et cosinus angulorum multiplorum per producta exprimi queant.
II. Considerationes super Theoremate Fermatiano; de resolutione numerorum in numeros polygonales.
Observationes in aliquot Theoremata illustris de la Grange.
Investigatio formulæ integralis $s\frac{x^{m-1}dx}{(1+x^k)^n}$ casu quo post integrationem statuitur $x=\infty$.

Euler E. Opuscula Analytica.

Investigatio valoris integralis $s \frac{m^{m-1} da.}{1 - 2 x^k \cos. \theta + x^{2k}}$ a termino $x = o$ usque ad $x = \infty$ extensi.

Theoremata quædam analytica, quorum demonstratio adhuc desideratur.—De relatione inter ternas pluresve quantitates instituenda.

De revolutione fractionum transcendentium in infinitas fractiones simplices.—De transformatione serierum in fractiones continuas; ubi simul hæc Theoria non mediocriter amplificatur.

Methodus inveniendi formulas integrales, quæ certis casibus datam inter se teneant rationem, ubi simul, etc.

Summa fractionis continuæ, cujus indices progressionem arithmeticam constituunt, dum numeratores omnes sunt unitates, etc.

De summa seriei ex numeris primis formatæ $\frac{1}{3} - \frac{1}{5} + \frac{1}{7} + \frac{1}{11} - \frac{1}{13} - \frac{1}{17} + \frac{1}{19} + \frac{1}{23} - \frac{1}{29} + \frac{1}{31}$ etc., ubi numeri primi formæ $4n - 1$ habent signum positivum, formæ autem $4n + 1$ signum negativum.

De seriebus potestatum reciprocis methodo nova et facillima summandis.—De insigni promotione scientiæ numerorum.

Solutio quæstionis ad calculum probabilitatis pertinentis; quantum duo conjuges persolvere debeant ut suis hæredibus post utriusque mortem, certa argenti summa persolvatur.

Solutio quarundam ex calculo probabilium.
